Maplesoft moves to Waterloo Tech Campus

Custom-built facilities on Kumpf Drive new home to reputable math software developer

WATERLOO, ON, August 29, 2003 —Maplesoft, the leading source of mathematical software for educators, researchers and professionals, announces that it will begin operations at its new facility at Waterloo Tech Campus, 615 Kumpf Drive in North Waterloo, on Tuesday, September 2, 2003. The company expects minimal disruptions to its business activities as a result of the move.

For the last five years, Maplesoft has occupied the former Seagram Museum in uptown Waterloo. The Museum will now become the headquarters for the recently established Centre for International Governance Innovation.

The new facility on Kumpf Drive was designed and built to Maplesoft's specifications. It offers a highly efficient and modern layout with innovative workspaces and recreational facilities, such as a billiards room and a gym, and common interaction areas throughout the building.

Maplesoft is a division of Waterloo Maple Inc. Incorporated in 1988, Maplesoft employs about 100 people and is a recognized leader in mathematical software and technology.
